Mother Teresa

Fact Sheet

Whether Teresa is significant because she was a Nonconformist. This means she felt things to help out other people. She never let me fully descend to helping the poor, the sick, the needy, and the forgotten. When she said to go out and feel the call from God to help the poor, sick and needy of India. This wasn't an easy task in India in 1940s. She had very little support and, while trying to feed and help the poorest of the poor, she herself was constantly hungry and even had to beg for food.

Born, after wars joined her and she formed the Mothers of Church Street Tenants described the purpose of the Mothers of Church as an organization to take care of the hungry, the naked, the homeless, the crippled, the blind, the lame, all those people who had no money, clothing, food for themselves or their families. The mothers of church was throughout society people that took because it burdened to the society and are ashamed by everyone. Today they have over 40000 women who care for people all over the world.
